Last Sunday of the Church Year

HYMNS: 272 173 487 129

INTROIT:

The LORD reigns; He is clothed with majesty; the LORD has clothed Himself; He has fastened on strength as His belt. Surely the world is firmly established; it cannot be moved.

Your throne was set in place long ago. You are from eternity.

The rivers have lifted up, O LORD, the rivers have lifted up their voice; the rivers are lifting up their pounding waves.

The LORD in His place on high is mightier than the sounds of many mighty waters, mightier than the breakers of the sea.

Your testimonies are very reliable. Holiness adorns Your house, O LORD, for days without end.

Psalm 93

COLLECT: Lord Jesus Christ, so govern our hearts and minds by Your Holy Spirit that, ever mindful of Your glorious return, we may persevere in both faith and holiness of living; for You live and reign with the Father and the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever. Amen.

We have Peace in the Lord Jesus Christ

True peace, thankfulness, and joy are not things that can be bought or taken away from others. As another church year comes to a close, and we move closer to the end of another calendar year, we ask, "How did things go this past year?" Perhaps there has been plenty to be thankful for, but maybe not. Everyone is different. One thing, however, that has not changed is our peace with God.

There is no call to be worked up or frustrated, but rather the opposite. Indeed, the Word of God says, "Do not worry about anything" (Phil. 4:6). Why? Because of the lasting peace our God has given in Christ. His death has conquered all the enemies we face - sickness, worry, death, and fear. His resurrection in the body is our peace. It signals the end of punishment and divine warfare. All accounts are settled - we are just to God - righteous. We have been baptised into Christ. Now, eternal death has been taken off the menu - we shall live beyond the sleep of death. We shall rise to glory - this is true no matter what happens to our bodies in this life. "The peace of God, which is beyond all understanding, will also guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:7). We hear these words every Sunday. We can be safe in Christ in our hearts and minds, while our body is subject to tribulations, weaknesses, and vulnerabilities.

The source of all thanksgiving is God's Word, not our feelings or physical welfare. We are not thankful, though. Although we receive daily bread and a multitude of gifts - we ignore them, focusing instead on what we don't have. Therefore, we must turn from false forms of security - what we crave on earth will not give life. We must never think that we can grab peace by the throat - we are not the source of life. Our sacrifices are selfish and sinful and can earn nothing but death.

We are called to focus on what is good - not just for the moment, but for all eternity. Eat not just food for the body, but feast on the gifts that come in the Word. "Foods are for the stomach, and the stomach is for foods" (1 Cor. 6:13) - and God will destroy both one and the other. The body is not meant for sexual immorality, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body. We must read and learn Scripture and live by it. God will not lead us away from Him. We must ponder the Word, pray it, and heed it - God's will is food to satisfy broken hearts and distraught minds. Jesus speaks to us - wanting us to grow in knowledge and understanding. The Apostle Paul writes, "Do not conform to this world but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, that you may approve of what God wants, namely, what is good, pleasing and perfect!" (Romans 12:2).

Our minds and thoughts are not to be ruled by the world and its deathly news, but by our Lord who lives to bless us. We turn away from anything that offers no hope, to our God, who is our refuge. He cares for us and protects us as our kind and good Father. Much thanks to Him! There is always never-ending thanks to be given.

But our thanks is not to be like the selfish child who only thanks because he must. We are to live lives of thankfulness to Christ, our Lord. We are called to present our bodies as “living sacrifices” (Romans 12:1) - not concerned about our own welfare, but safe from death and hell - not fearing earthly ruin but living for a heavenly inheritance.

Practice these things in your life, walk in the Spirit, abiding in the Word. Our lives in Christ are ones of service and patience, not selfishness. Without the Spirit there is no real thankfulness. We can't make a sinful heart generous and full of gratitude. Without the true God we have no one to thank, but are left with ourselves and our sin. Why is thanksgiving connected to prayer?

Prayer is our response to the Father for His saving Word and salvation. Without the Spirit there is no prayer heard. But our Father wants us to treat Him like a dear Father. So don't be afraid to talk to Him constantly, with thanksgiving. Satan does not rest - he is working hard to make us worry, disturbed, and not at peace in our minds. There will be no lack of problems and trials, there is no peace in this world for any of us. Rather, our peace is with God. We are to trust at this moment: “He who is righteous by faith will live” (Romans 1:17). Chew and ruminate on peace with God now that is offered by Christ. This is to have peace with the holy God, and to be right with Him.

“Faith comes from hearing, and hearing through the Word of Christ” (Romans 10:17). We either believe or disbelieve; we can't put God on hold or give faith to another. We must be thankful for what we have - to God the Father who has given His Son for us.

If you do not have many earthly gifts, the heavenly gifts are always abounding and overflowing to you. The riches of forgiveness shower you in Baptism. You are new and your guilt is removed. It is done - just as Christ is risen - the sin of the world has been conquered, including yours. Grace is always abounding for you - in Christ. Thanks be to God.
